

Title	Rethinking working time in Europe
Author	Cabrita, Jorge
Source	Eurofound
Pub Date	2017
Brief Introduction	The results of recent research on working time patterns in the EU constitute a strong plea for working time policies that clearly acknowledge the life course perspective. This means that working time must not only be thought and organised in daily, weekly, monthly and/or yearly terms but also take into full consideration the different stages of our lives.