Brief introduction	We would like to acknowledge the financial assistance of Cardiff Business School for providing the funds to allow us to undertake much of the research necessary for the new cases, as well as the Economic &amp; Social Research Council and the Leverhulme Trust for their support of several research projects that we draw upon in the cases and elsewhere in the text. In addition, we would like to thank the many workers, managers, union leaders and government officials who have provided us with important insights, as well as our students whose comments on previous editions and early drafts of the current text have influenced the content and presentation of material. We are also grateful to Kate Bradbury and the library staff of Cardiff Business School for their assistance with secondary data used in several of the tables, as well as Penny Smith and Lesley Plowman for their assistance with the preparation of the manuscript. Finally, we would like to thank Sarah Brown and Ursula Gavin at Palgrave Macmillan for their encouragement and patience. PAUL BLYTON PETER TURNBULL
