

Title	Italy: Work climate improves while job satisfaction declines
Author
Source	Eurofound
Pub Date	2014
Brief Introduction	The third Quality of work survey report, published by Italy's National Research Institute for Vocational Education and Training Employment and Social Policies (Isfol), provides both synthetic indicators and an accurate overview of the quality of work in Italy. It shows that while the work climate is still good, job satisfaction is still relatively low because of poor rewards and poor work prospects.